

Lagavulin Distillers Edition, Distillery Bottled

£95.00

Vintage: 2001
Bottle Size: 70cl
Alcohol %: 43%
Country: Scotland

Description: Nose: Fresh attack, with a barrel of tar and punches of peat, sulphur and salt, then soothed with beeswax. Palate: Rich and extremely sweet, then smoky becoming medicinal and eventually seaweedy. Finish: Pepper, salt, sand.

Cepages:

Group: Scotch Whisky

Sub group: Islay

Colour: Single Malt Whisky

Closure: Cork

Producer:

Website:

Organic/Bio Status:

Food / cocktail match:

Food / cocktail recipe:

Press

Awards

Other Info: The distillery of Lagavulin officially dates from 1816, when John Jonston and Archibald Campbell constructed two distilleries on the site. One of them became Lagavulin, taking over the other which one is not exactly known. Records show illicit distillation in at least ten illegal distilleries on the site as far back as 1742, however. In the 19th century, several legal battles ensued with their neighbour Laphroaig, brought about after the distiller at Lagavulin, Sir Peter Mackie, leased the Laphroaig distillery. It is said that Mackie attempted to copy Laphroaig's style. Since the water and peat at Lagavulin's premises was different from that at Laphroaig's, the result was different. The Lagavulin distillery is located in the town of the same name.